

Did'ja Know?

Helping other people actually helps you too! Researchers have shown when you help someone else, your well-being improves!

Color That Stuff

Add a splash of color to Jesus helping a person.

Luke 13:31-35

A man ran up to Jesus. "Jesus," he cried, "King Herod wants to kill you! You need to run and hide."

Jesus frowned. "I'm not going anywhere," he said. "Tell that fox I am going to keep healing and telling everyone the truth about God."

"Why do you seem so sad?" the man asked.

"Because I love God's people so much. But they do such terrible things. God has sent them so many messengers and they don't listen." The man nodded. "That's true."

Jesus continued. "I just want to gather them all up like a mother hen and hug them and tell them how loved they are. But I don't think they will hear it. Still, I will keep telling them, even though I know it will end up getting me killed."

Helping

Sometimes it takes work to help others. Sometimes they won't know it was you who helped - do it anyway.

Try It At Home

See how many Bibles you have at home. Count them. Do you use them often? How many different versions do you have? Why do you think there are different versions?

Special Task Force

This week, try to help out with something at home, but don't tell anyone you did it. It can be something simple like taking out the trash. Sometimes helping others without needing others to see it or praise us makes the work that much more special!
